

Jane Clements MBE

Founder and co-Chair

Dr Jane Clements is an Anglican with many years of experience in inter faith relations. Her background is in Religious Education, specialising first in Islam and then in Judaism. She has a first degree in Theology, an MA in Hebrew and Jewish Studies and a PhD in Holocaust Education. Jane has worked in various roles, including for the Council of Christians and Jews. In 2008 she founded the Forum for Discussion of Israel and Palestine (FODIP) to enable positive and sensitive conversations in the UK on the Israeli/Palestinian situation, and now works as a consultant on related matters. She has taken countless groups to the Holy Land, worked on a number of projects and has written and spoken extensively on religious approaches to the conflict. Jane is a former trustee to the Holocaust Memorial Day Trust, is a member of the Anglican-Jewish Commission and was awarded the Hubert Walter Award for Interfaith Relations by the Archbishop of Canterbury in 2017 and an MBE for her contribution to inter faith and social cohesion in 2020.
